Lolly

This is Lolly. Lolly is an Anatolian Shepherd. I believe she is purebred. She's a very sweet and loving dog. She loves affection and to be pet. She will come and rest her head on your lap hoping for a neck scratch. She gets along well with other big dogs and little dogs and quickly learned to leave the cat alone. She has house trained, walks on a leash and is kennel trained. I don't know her exact age but I think she's around 2 years old. Lolly was very skinny when we rescued her. She is quickly putting on weight and is a healthy dog. She is such a loving, affectionate animal. We really hope to find her a good home. Anatolian shepherds are bred for livestock guardians, but she would also make a great pet or even service animal I believe.
