PERSONALITY

Feya, is a great dog that loves to please and make you happy. She has been in my care since she was eight weeks old. She does well on and off a leash but will chase after deer and squirrels if she gets the chance to. She loves to go and walk, take naps in the sun, play tug-o-war, and do tricks for treats. She is very food motivated and is eager to please.

Feya is more of a human oriented dog, rather than a dog dog. She loves people, cuddles, and affection.

She has been very well socialized, but has gone through some changes into adulthood. At dog parks she has been fine with all dogs, but has shown signs of anxiety and occasionally dominance. I no longer take her to the dog park because it seems to stress her more than release energy. She has shown aggressive behavior in a pack toward two dogs, and independently toward one - her housemate. These dogs were introduced at four years old, for the most part get along, but have had multiple incidents where Feya has acted out in food aggression or been territorial.

Feya shows signs of anxiety in the car and when left at home. She loves to be out and explore new places, but car rides cause her stress (panting, shaking, at times refusal to get in the car). She is crate trained and finds safety there when left home alone. She won't chew or destroy if left alone, but has been known to escape through cracked windows, screen doors, and climb/jump fences - even 8-10 foot fences.

IDEAL HOME & ENVIRONMENT

Feya would do best in a calm, routine oriented house nnas a single house-hold dog. She enjoys kids and is very human oriented. Her energy level may be suited best for an active adult or older kids.

We are always on the move and that causes a lot of stress in her life. She does great with a routine but we can't always offer that to her. She will do well with a more stable life and one that is more routine oriented. We have another dog and Feya and her have gotten in a few fights. They have been doing well and Feya is for the most part submissive to other dogs but she has pinned smaller dogs.

HEALTH & GROOMING

Feya is very healthy. We feed her a non-grain diet called "First Mate". It is about $70 a bag and has been doing really well for her. She has a short coat that could use a comb from time to time to minimize her fur from getting everywhere.

Overall

She is a loving dog that loves to cuddle and be loved. She will do great as a single dog and with a family that can give her the love and routine that she needs
