

COURTESY LISTING

Mikey (Mister) showed up as a stray and would slip into our front yard a bit. We believe he was left behind by a neighbor. Over the months he popped over more and more and he began to look malnourished. By June he was emaciated and meowed for food constantly. One night I went out in the front yard in the middle of the night and he was resting on the sewer grate on the road. I felt so badly for this sweet boy. My son and I started feeding him and within a few days saw that he hadn't been fixed. I talked with the neighbors and we decided to befriend him and trap him so that we could help him find a real home. After just a few days he allowed me to pet him. Another neighbor earned his trust and began to pet him. He meowed for attention a lot. He would roll around and sometimes rub his wet nose on mine in an upward face bump. My guess is that this is equivalent to a kiss from a cat.

After gaining his trust we easily trapped him and got him in for a neuter appointment. While recuperating he quickly learned how to use an open litter box. He wanted cuddles constantly. He will even lay in the crook of your arm if you lie down with him. He's just a cute sweet boy. He likes to play and is gentle with my cats and usually acts submissive.

He will make a wonderful pet for just about anyone and likely would prefer to be indoor/outdoor.

Thank you,
Jen
