Indoor only. 2.5 years old. Fell in love with him the minute I saw him. He was the runt. He and bestie, Scooter, play so well together, one always knowing where the other is. Their antics are so amusing and entertaining. They often sleep nestled together. Andy loves being right next to me as often as he gets a chance. Scooter is more content to be near me, but not on top of me....lol. They each come with a tower scratch pole, litter pan, and one "brush" glove.

Scooter was born with swimmer's syndrome so initially she just scooted around keeping up, even leading the others. I was taken by her courageous spirit.

I have been at home caring for my beloved for several years. I finally am able to leave the home to visit my kids and grandkids, and so it's time I find Scooter a new loving home. Preferably with her brother Andy, but not essential.

For me, it's the one of the hardest actions I've needed to make, and that's why I pray for a loving home to open it's doors for them.

I have neuter and microchip documents.
