Goblin

Goblin is a 4 year old neutered male Domestic Long Hair with a brown tabby coloration. He has been with my family for 3 years; we brought him into our home when he was around a year old when a friend of mine had to move and couldn't keep him. My friend had him neutered and got him all his shots before I took him in. He had a dog that would harass him regularly, and as a result, he's always been very timid, quiet, and quite skittish, especially around adults and dogs.

He and our other 7 year old family cat have an ongoing territory issue, and sometimes fight with more aggression than the simple rough-and-tumble play fighting, so he may not be compatible with other cats. Our other cat can be territorial though, so it could just be him that Goblin doesn't get along with.

Despite all that, he's a very sweet little guy who can be very affectionate and cuddly. He has a very sweet and timid meow that is heart-melting. He's very good with kids as long as they're gentle and calm with him. He eats both dry and wet food with enthusiasm and he's an absolute snack fiend. An easy way to his heart is with a pack of salami. He knows what the bag opening sounds like and will come running every time I do it.
